

OPENING NIGHT CROWD TO SET RECORD

Revised NRA Seen Now

As Balance of "Left"

"Right" Economic Views

WASHINGTON—Roosevelt's reorganized NRA has been functioning less than a week. But already his structure has become representative of the conflicting forces within the country today.

The National Industrial Recovery Board, in charge of administering the NRA, is dominated by business. Its slant is conservative.

The Industrial Emergency Committee, which defines policy for the NRA, is dominated by some of the most liberal members of the Roosevelt family. Its slant is pro-labor, pro-farmer, pro-social reform.

One group is balanced off against the other. Whether this set-up is efficient remains to be seen. But that it accurately represents the growing conflict between Labor and Industry, is certain. This has become the biggest problem of the Administration today.

Sitting as chief coordinator between these two conflicting groups is the man who next to Roosevelt has made a record for coordination—Donald R. Richberg.

Military Line-up

In military terms—here is how he fits into the revised NRA picture:

Commander-in-chief—The President.

General Staff—The Industrial Emergency Committee.

Chief of Staff—Richberg, Director of the Industrial Emergency Committee.

Brigadier General—The NRA Board, in charge of NRA administration.

Sometimes working behind the scenes, sometimes out in front, Richberg is actually running the show.

One year ago knowledge of this would have made business goggled with horror. Richberg would have been branded as a dangerous radical, an ardent labor enthusiast, and advocate of Moscowism.

But in the past year, Richberg has changed.

One change has been his increasing closeness to the President. He was reasonably close before but in recent months he has gone in and out of the White House almost constantly.

The second change has been Richberg's gradual conservatism. All things are relative. The man now chosen to guide the NRA, once became disgusted with Big Business, threw up a profit (the Chicago) law practice, dedicated his life to the progressive movement.

He prosecuted Sam Insull when the rest of Chicago was worshipping at the shrine of Insull's Opera House. He hammered at public utilities when it was considered personally dangerous to lift a voice against them. He championed the Railway Brotherhood, became the leading brother of labor in the United States.

Business Friend

Today Big Business, one-time attacker of Richberg as a wild-eyed assailant of the country's economic structure, no longer looks upon him with bulging eyes.

They have found him temperate, considerate, understanding. Simultaneously, Richberg's old labor cronies have been bitter in their disappointment. They hold him responsible for company unions, the Steel code, the much-criticized Aluminum code.

Actually Richberg still is much more liberal, much more progressive than Big Business. Fundamentally, he is a "left of center" man.

And probably nowhere in the United States could the President have found anyone who more closely duplicates his own personal views.

In making Richberg NRA Chief

JEROME DEAN SELECTED FOR OPENING GAME

Frisch Puts Star Right Hand in Box; Cochrane Reserves Rowe

SKIES OVERCAST

Game Delayed to Let Crowd Get Seated

Loose fielding by Owen and Gehringer set the stage for two runs for the Cardinals in the second inning when with the bases full Jack Rothrock singled to left field scoring Durocher and Dizzy Dean.

An error by Greenberg in the third inning permitted Collins to score the third run.

DETROIT, Oct. 3.—Manager Frankie Frisch selected his ace right hander, Jerome "Dizzy" Dean, in an effort to win the first game and the jump from the Detroit Tigers. Manager Mickey Cochrane reserved his star hurler, Lynnwood "Schoolboy" Rowe, for the second game and picked "General" Alvin Crowder, veteran right hander, taken from Washington by the waiver rule during the year, for mound duty.

The lineup and batting order for the world series opening game at Navin field here today follows:

ST. LOUIS: White, cf.

DETROIT: Rothrock, rf.

Frisch, 2b.

Gehringer, 2b.

Medwick, lf.

Greenberg, 1b.

SKAGGS RETURNED TO FACE CHARGES

The story of a good man gone wrong was being told by police today after Mark Skaggs, 34, of Morgan-co, Ky., was taken back Tuesday afternoon to face the music.

Skaggs is charged with embezzling $750 of money belonging to the state of Kentucky and Morgan-co. He was returned to Kentucky after Sheriff W. H. Stacy obtained extradition papers from Governor Ruby Laffoon and Governor George White.

The man, clean-cut and apparently of good family, had served as deputy sheriff, as sheriff and as a tax collector. It was while engaged in the latter work that he went astray, officers claimed.

He was arrested here last Saturday. He had been living near Duvall since last November.

Three Stars in Baseball Show

The Deans—Dizzy and Daffy

Few editions of the world series have had the colorful players that the pairing of the Detroit Tigers and the St. Louis Cardinals produced for the 1934 championship tournament. Detroit, the American league flag winner, has its Lynnwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, 22-year-old hurler, who equalled the American league record of winning 16 consecutive victories. St. Louis boasts of the Dean brothers, "Dizzy" Jay and "Daffy" Paul, who promised their manager, Frankie Frisch, that they would win 45 games between them during the past season, and did more than keep their word by totalling 49 victories.

FEAR 26 LOST IN SEA STORM

Freighter Sends SOS But Two Rescue Ships Fail To Find Any Trace.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Grave fears that the British freighter Millpool, carrying a crew of 26, had sunk with all on board lost, 700 miles off the coast of Newfoundland, were expressed early today in dispatches received here by Mackay radio.

The steamer Black Gull reported that it and the Canadian Pacific freighter Beaverhill had reached the last given position of the distressed Millpool, which sent out several SOS signals, but were unable to find any trace of her.

The Millpool was last heard by the Black Gull's wireless operator at 9 p. m. G. M. T. (4 a. m., E. S. T.) and her position noted although the general text of the message sent was unreadable.

The Black Gull and the Beaverhill arrived at the scene at the same time, but neither could find a trace of the freighter. Efforts to re-establish communication with her by wireless likewise were unavailing.

Both ships have to immediately to await clearer weather, they reported.

The Millpool, bound for Montreal from Danzig, reported last night that her after-hatch had been stove-in, her topmast broken and three men injured in a storm of considerable intensity.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Wallowing helplessly in an Atlantic gale, the steamship Ainderby, today reported by wireless that she was suffering heavy damage from smashing seas.

A wireless from the Ainderby, bound from England for Montreal, intercepted the Mackay Radio corporation here at 10:40 a. m. stated: "No. 1 hatch and forward iron bulkhead stove in. Part of bridge washed away and chief officer injured. Unable to heave to."

DEPUTY RECOVERS

Robert E. Armstrong, deputy sheriff, returned to his duties Wednesday after being absent because of illness.

Doctor, Who Examined Freda McKechnie After Her Body Was Found, Tightens Web About Small Town Adonis.

WILKES BARRE, Pa., Oct. 3.—Freda McKechnie, young telephone girl, died from a vicious blow on the head and not from drowning, Dr. Harry Brown testified today at the "American Tragedy" murder trial of her betrayer, 21-year-old Bobby Edwards, small-town adonis.

The prosecution charges the youthful mine surveyor struck down Freda from behind during a midnight swim in the rain at Harvey's lake. Freda was to have become a mother and Bobby wanted to marry Margaret Crain, 22-year-old music teacher, of East Aurora, N. Y., whom he had met at college, the state charges.

FOUND BLOODY GASH

Dr. Brown testified he examined the body of Freda on the beach after it was recovered. He found a bloody gash on the back of the skull, under her white bathing cap.

"She did not drown," said the physician. "Her eyes were slightly engorged, the pupils slightly contracted. Ordinarily in a drowned person the skin has the appearance of being bruised."

Red Cross Has First Aid Booth

Pickaway-co chapter will have a fully equipped Red Cross first aid station at the southwest corner of Court and Main-sts., adjoining the Boy Scout tent, it was announced today.

Mrs. Eleanor Wolfley Bisell will be the supervisor assisted by Misses Mabel Young, Elizabeth Cady and Mary Butler, all registered nurses.

Circleville physicians have volunteered their services and aiding in the work will be Miss Agnes Butch, secretary of home service, Harry L. Bartholomew, Roll call chairman, and Charles Kirkpatrick.

A number of girls in the school parade will be dressed as Red Cross nurses, Miss Butch reports.

Mrs. Kathryn Holdren, of Springfield, and Mrs. William Kulp, of Blanchester, are guests during the Pumpkin Show of Mrs. Mame Mowery.

JURORS PICKED TO TRY BRUNO ON EXTORTION

New York Judge Set October 11 for Trial Date; Attorney Objects

HEARING SHORT ONE

Alienists to Determine Hauptmann Sanity

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, Lindbergh case suspect, on charges of extortion today was set for Oct. 11 by Bronx-co Judge James M. Barrett in a brief hearing in the Bronx-co courthouse.

Judge Barrett, at the request of District Attorney Samuel Foley, set the date for trial and ordered a special panel of jurors who will try the case drawn tomorrow despite objection of James M. Fawcett, Hauptmann's attorney that he would have insufficient time to prepare his defense by Oct. 11.

DRAW SPECIAL PANEL

Fawcett, however, consented to the drawing of the special jury panel.

The entire proceedings took only a few minutes.

The former German army machine gunner who is charged with having extorted $50,000 from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh through the mediation of Dr. John F. (Jafsic) Condon for the promised return of the filer's kidnapped son, presented a totally different appearance today.

Another development of importance today will be Hauptmann's examination by a board of psychiatrists, who will seek to determine his emotional capacity for crime—if such a thing there is—or his lack of it.

Two, Dr. John A. Contelly and Dr. James B. Spradley will represent New Jersey, while Dr. S. Phillip Goodhart will represent New York. A fourth expert, as yet unnamed, will be asked to represent the defendant.

CONFESSION DENIED

A report, emanating in Newark, N. J., that a youth had been arrested as an accomplice of Hauptmann's and that he had confessed he held the ladder against the Lindbergh home in Hopewell while the carpenter stole the baby from its crib, was vehemently denied by all authorities last night.

From New Jersey came the statement that Governor A. Harry Moore and his aides are of the opinion they have a good murder case against the sullen alien.

SMITH BABY WINS OCTOBER AWARDS

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Smith, 216 E. Corwin-st., is the first baby of October. The child was born Tuesday and will receive a number of awards of Circleville merchants for being the first baby of the month.

The father is a laborer and the birth was reported by Dr. Lloyd Jones.

Awards include a case of Coca Cola by the Circleville Coca Cola Bottling Co., a savings account of $1 by the Circleville Savings and Banking Co., one quart of milk daily for two weeks by the Circle City dairy, a Chenille rug by Griffith and Martin, a three months subscription to The Herald, 400 pounds of ice to be used during October by the Circleville Ice Co., a suitable floral tribute by the Brehmer greenhouses, and a box of cigars to the father, by the Mecca.

DAY CHANGED FOR FOOD DISTRIBUTING

Federal relief food will be distributed Friday afternoon from 1:30 to 4:30 o'clock instead of Saturday at the Goldfederick property, S. Pickaway-st. John H. Drum, distributor, announces.

Tabor Heads Notables to Greet Chief

Many Dignitaries To Hear Address and Take Supper With Wallace.

The visit this evening of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace will also mark the appearance of the greatest gathering of farm and grange dignitaries ever seen in Pickaway-co. A number of letters have been sent to leaders all over the state and practically all have notified the farm bureau they will be here.

Included are:

L. J. Tabor, master of the National Grange;

Walter Kirk, master of the Ohio State Grange;

Perry Green, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation;

H. C. Ramsower, extension director of Ohio State university;

Guy Dowdy, former Pickaway-co agent who is now Ohio compliance director for the AAA;

Earl Hanefeld, state director of agriculture;

F. G. Keltner, director of the Ohio livestock co-operative association;

Dean Cunningham, dean of the school of agriculture of Ohio State university;

R. D. Lewis, of the crops department of the university, who is also in charge of the corn husking-festival exhibition day.

All these farm leaders will be included in the supper at the home of Turney Glick, farm bureau president, who has been arranged for Mr. Wallace, who is expected to arrive here from Chillicothe about 4 p. m. He will be taken on a tour of the livestock yards, the sales pavilion, and to see the 4-H club, school and Boy Scout exhibits.

HENNESSY GIRL HURT BY AUTO

This year's Pumpkin Show will not mean much to Marvene Hennessy, daughter of Mrs. Harriet Hennessy, 120 1-2 W. Main-st., who was to be brought home from Berger hospital today suffering a broken left leg.

The child was struck Tuesday afternoon by the automobile of Gomer H. Jones, seventh and eighth grade teacher in the Salt-creek-two school, while she was roller skating on the N. Washington-st. hill with Dorothy Ann Dresbach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Dresbach, H. F. Alkire, who witnessed the accident, said Jones, who turned north onto Washington-st. off Main-st., was not to blame. The Dresbach child managed to evade the automobile.

Had the Hennessy child not been on roller skates she, too, would probably not have been struck.

Little Marvene was taken to Berger hospital where her injury, described as a spiral fracture of the femur, was set by Dr. D. V. Courtwright and Dr. C. C. Beale, county health officer in whose office the injured girl's mother is stenographer. An X-ray of the injury was to be taken this morning.

A little of the sting is taken from the misfortune since only Monday she and her mother moved uptown and she will be able to see the parades from an upstairs window.

TO VISIT ST. LOUIS

George William Groom will leave Thursday to attend the world series in St. Louis.

Term 'Cardinals' Makes Detroit Policemen Dizzy

DETROIT, Oct. 3.—The big Dean boy from Oklahoma is not the only person in Detroit who rates the title of "Dizzy" these days.

Superintendent of Police James E. McCarty admits he's still somewhat dizzy. Sergeant Walter Stelt says Lieutenant William Maloney must have been dizzy. And the eight patrolmen on Sergeant Stelt's detail agree that the whole affair was a very dizzy procedure.

It all started when Superintendent McCarty telephoned Lieutenant Maloney and told him to be sure to have a detail at Union station Tuesday morning. Lieutenant Maloney wanted to know what the detail was supposed to do. And Superintendent McCarty replied:

"Cardinals coming in. Have the detail escort them."

So the detail, under command of Sergeant Stelt, went to Union station. Some baseball players were arriving from St. Louis, and the crowd was so thick the police had considerable trouble making their way through it.

"Do you see 'em?" asked Sergeant Stelt anxiously.

No one could see 'em.

So the sergeant telephoned the station. "The St. Louis ball team is here. Will Rogers is here, and a lot of citizens are here; but we can't find the Bishops. What shall we do?"

The police blotter explained it. There, in black and white, was Lieutenant Maloney's interpretation of Superintendent McCarty's order:

"Send eight men and Sergeant to Union station to escort church dignitaries."

THOUSANDS TO HEAR SECRETARY WALLACE

Opening Afternoon's Weather Draws Many to City With Displays Being Rapidly Placed; Beauty Parade Expected to Provide Much Competition.

The annual Pumpkin Show—one of the most unique farm exhibitions in the nation—was formally opened this afternoon as a colorful prelude to the speech of Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, this evening.

Wallace's presence here in the heart of one of the richest farming districts in the state, was expected to draw additional thousands to the ceremonies attendant to the gala event.

In his address, the secretary of agriculture is scheduled to tell the farmers what the "New Deal" and its AAA have done for them. His address could not come at a more opportune time. The stage is set and waiting and he will find the populace and the hundreds of visitors here in a festive mood when he steps onto the speaker's platform at Main and Pickaway-sts. A loud speaking system has been erected to carry his voice far.

The judges will face a difficult task this year as many of the recognized beauties of the city have been entered. C. G. Chalfin, parade director, reports. Out-of-town judges will select the winner.

Judging will be done on a platform erected on Pinckney-st.

"Me and Paul, That's All"- Says Dizzy on Series Day

"If Frisch Would Let Me I'd Win the Series in Four Straight," Gabby One Tells Scribe; Rows Almost Forgotten As Cards Hit Town.

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer.

DETROIT, Oct. 3.—"Me and Paul, that's all!"

Thus does that delirious exponent of the colossal ego—Dizzy Dean—lightly dismiss the Tigers and the world series in one grand, all embracing gesture.

"Me and Paul, that's all the Cards need. In fact, they don't need Paul. If Frankie Frisch lets me pitch the first four games, we'll win four straight."

What can you say about an ego so magnificent as that? You'd think a fellow who could talk like that was an insufferable bore, wouldn't you? And yet, he isn't. Somehow he says it with such an easy, smiling, good natured grace that you don't mind. On the contrary, you like to hear him boast.

CAN PROVE IT

And somehow he has the knack of making you believe him. Indeed, how could you do otherwise after what he has done? Didn't he say, as he will repeat for you, that he'd win 25 games and didn't he win 30? He must certainly did.

Therefore, you can't dismiss him as lightly as he dismissed the Tigers' chances when he says "he'll take them like Grant took Richmond, only a heluva sight faster."

"Me and Paul, that's all!" That confident, challenging phrase has gotten under this town's skin. What's more important to the Cardinals, it has gotten under the skin of the Tigers. They fear the Dean brothers and particularly Dizzy.

The Tigers have no illusions about the long, lanky Arkansan with the rubber arm and rubber jaw. He's pure, unadulterated poison for any hitter and they know it. So does Dizzy.

"Me and Paul, that's all."

It's like a refrain, but it may be the swan song of the Tigers. "I'll buzz my hard one past those babbies' ears so fast they'll think a typhoon hit 'em," says the Dizzy one. "They'll be lucky to get a loud fuff off me."

LEFTIES TOUGHER

"Whassat, Goslin? Say guys like him are a dime a dozen in my book. At that, those left-handed hitters are just a little harder to throw past than the guys that think straight. (Just a delicate little compliment from Dizzy to

The Dizzy one stretches his long, loose arms high above his head. He looks as lean as one of the razorbacks of his native state.

"The kid here"—pointing a finger at his admiring younger brother Paul—"might take them easier than I will. You know he's good. He's faster than I am but his change of pace ain't so good. But it's good enough for those Tigers."

He slumps into an easy chair and parks his feet on the bed, when friend wife, coming in from the adjoining room says, "Honey, take those big feet off the bed. Do you want to ruin that bedspread? What will those hotel people think of us?"

"Ah, honey, we're paying them plenty for this room ain't we? I guess them spreads will wash."

Never has anybody overshadowed this one. They are the sword of Democles hanging over the Tigers' head. Not even Babe Ruth in his palmist days struck terror into the hearts of his foes as Dizzy looks like a nightmare to the Tigers.

Without him, one might be inclined to pick the Tigers. With him, one can't help but agree with him that this whole series hinges on the Deans. The Deans are the series.

ROWE FORGOTTEN

Strangely enough, Schoolboy Rowe is almost forgotten in the story of the Deans. Thousands of fans wait outside the hotel all day hoping for a glimpse of the mighty Dean.

Stranger still, even the Tigers are doubtful what Rowe may do. One of them told the writer that Rowe will one day be a great pitcher but he is not yet as good as that 16-straight game record would seem to indicate.

This Tiger frankly admitted that Dizzy was right. The whole series is just—"Me and Paul, that's all!"

Held in, Slaying

Marvin Day

Breaking down after hours of questioning by police from three states, Marvin Day, 20, pictured above, of South Bend, Ind., assertedly confessed to the assault and slaying in 1930 of eight-year-old Marverine Appel, in a South Bend alley. His statement to a Missouri transients' camp official that he was allegedly being sought in connection with the case had brought about his arrest.

About This And That

BY THE

WORLD SERIES FIRST

Of course the world's series broadcast tops everything over the air waves in the sports world this week but there are plenty of things of interest in the football line ***

Naturally, Ohio stations will carry the Ohio State-Indiana game with the exception of WBNS which is expected to broadcast the Notre Dame-Texas university contest through the Columbia broadcasting system—Pat Flanagan, of Chicago WBBM, is at the mike—The Wisconsin-Marquette game is on the air and so is that between Iowa and Northwestern, an important Big Ten fray, even WGN, Chicago ***

GRANGE TAKES MIKE

Red Grange is making his debut this week as a radio prognosticator speaking on the thrice-weekly CBS review; He's on the Columbia system station in Chicago, WBBM, each Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 7:15 p. m. The first two evenings will be devoted to pre-game outlooks and predictions, some-what on the order of Eddie Dooley's program from east, while on Saturday he will give final scores of the big games.

WHAT OF GIANTS?

Incidentally, Bob Newhall had to take back more of his continuous chatter than anyone we know when the Cardinals nosed out the Giants for the top spot in John Heydler's loop—The entire week prior to that "dizzy" week-end when the Deans made the Cincinnati Reds stand on their heads, Newhall praised the virtues of Bill Terry and his National league club ***

BOBCATS NEED HARD DRILLS

Many Rough Spots Come To Fore in Indiana Debacle; Georgetown Next.

ATHENS, Oct. 3.—Stunned from their 27 to 0 defeat at the hands of "Bo" McMillan's Indiana eleven at Bloomington last Saturday the Ohio Bobcats returned to two weeks of practice before their game with Georgetown here on Oct. 13.

McMillan's triumphal inaugural last week was the worst beating Ohio has taken since 1927. The new football era at this school cannot imagine such a defeat, and though a bit dazed; activity on the Ohio practice field is going forward with probably the best team attitude in the last three years.

MANY FACTORS

However, the Ohio team of last Saturday was not quite so disappointing as the score might indicate. They were outplayed, and many of the bad breaks that put Indiana into scoring position were caused directly by Ohio football that far from being alert.

On the other side Snyder's punting was very good. The ball carrying of Diehl was promising, and the end play at both terminals was better than hoped for although it could not have been worse in going down under punts.

TO CORRECT FAULTS

The next three weeks, before the first conference game with Miami, will be spent in correcting the faults of the Indiana defeat, which means that the next three weeks will be very, very busy ones. The Ohio defense is far below last year's standard, and needs plenty of polishing. Spinners seem to have the middle of the line in a quandry, and the tackling is sorely ineffective. Also on pass defense the Bobcats will have much work to do, play in this department is possibly worse than the play of the ends covering punts.

3 PLAYERS CLIMB

COLUMBUS, Oct. 3.—Three American Association baseball players, all of them outstanding, today had been swept into the major leagues by the force of the annual draft.

The three players were Henry Erickson, Louisville, a catcher; Vernon C. Washington, Indianapolis, outfielder, and Catcher Robert Fenner, of St. Paul. Erickson was drafted out of the minors by Cincinnati with Fenner and Washington being called by the Chicago White Sox.

The final decision on Washington's call to the majors must be made by Commissioner K. M. Landis, as his eligibility is a bit doubtful. Washington came to Indianapolis from the Texas league, being brought up by the White Sox.

Glenna After Sixth Golf Title

Seeking her sixth title, Mrs. Edwin Vare, the former Glenna Collett, who gave birth to her second child less than three months ago, gave promise of being among the leaders in women's national championship golf tournament at a Philadelphia club, after tying with two others for low medal honors. Mrs. Vare is pictured at the meet with Diana Fishwick, right, present British champion.

Indiana to Test Ohio State's 11

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 3.—Indiana's budding "five-man" backfield, the brain-child of its colorful new coach, "Bo" McMillan, today primed itself for its first real test of power Saturday when the Hoosiers will meet the untied Ohio State university football eleven.

ED. HEUSSER HALTS LEAFS BY CALCIMINE

Gives Only Two Hits as Mates Glean 4 To 0 Victory In Fourth Fray.

TORONTO, Oct. 3.—Big Ed. Heusser, right handed rookie of the Columbus Red Birds imported from a Southern league club just before the close of the year, let the Maple Leafs down with two hits last night and won the third game of the 5-in-9 playoff for the little world series title by a 4-0 score.

Joe Morrissey hit a double in the first inning and McQuinn singled in the sixth for Toronto's only hits. Heusser, a star of the playoff with Minneapolis, fanned seven batters.

Lucas was hurling good ball for the Toronto team but the Columbus' as took a two run lead in the sixth when Mickey Heath hit a home run with Nick Cullup, who had walked, on first base. The other two came in on Gene Moore's triple with two on the paths in the eighth session.

The teams left Toronto today with the series to be resumed in Columbus Friday night.

Waterway Plans Made Headway Back in 1919

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second of a series of three articles dealing with the proposed Scioto-Sandusky water conservancy district.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 3.—The Scioto-Sandusky district, as a plan for controlling droughts and providing recreational spots among the 39 reservoirs is new, but as far back as 1919 the Army engineers had approved a plan to harness the two rivers and put their waters to use.

At that time, with the railroads running a near capacity and with motor truck transportation negligible, government officials agreed that a ship canal from Sandusky to the Ohio River via Portsmouth, was an economic necessity.

But by the time the ship canal program was ready to start, the railroads had increased their facilities and were equipped to handle all the traffic, so, in 1925, the project was dropped as unnecessary.

NOT JUSTIFIED

The Scioto-Sandusky Ship Canal association re-opened the case this year, but after hearing with the government engineers, the association passed a resolution to the effect that it did not now feel that a waterway was justifiable.

Meanwhile the conservancy district had been organized at a meeting in Columbus in October, 1933, and H. Albert Smith and Alan Jordan, both of Columbus, were elected to head the group. Jordan immediately went to the Army engineers with the conservancy plan as a matter of flood protection.

The engineers were enthusiastic. Preliminary plans were compiled and drawn and approved by May of this year. The prospect of cutting eight feet of rise off the flood levels of the tributaries of the Ohio River in the central part of the state was heartily viewed by the engineers.

In the original plans, only the Scioto River was considered, because of its flood flow into the Ohio. But the Army men went ahead with more surveys which called for two additional reservoirs in the Sandusky River and Summit Lake.

No one knows yet just exactly where any of the dams will be constructed. The preliminary plans have only a rough approximation of the locations with engineering tests to determine the most suitable sites.

ON ALL CREEKS

However, it is the plan now to build a dam on every creek that serves more than 400 square miles of drainage area.

On Paint Creek, for example, which flows through Greenfield, three different sites for dams have been tentatively examined. The creek empties a drainage area of about 1,142 square miles and flows into the Scioto at Chillicothe. The town of Bainbridge marks the most southern point reached by the stream, and two of the sites which have been surveyed are between Bainbridge and Chillicothe. The third is west of Bainbridge, near the junction of Rocky Fork Creek with Paint Creek.

Other dam sites have been tentatively surveyed throughout the entire project, with the final decision to be left to the engineers who drew the plans.

With no one knowing just where the dams will be located, land speculators will be thwarted. In other instances, sections of valuable water projects have been ruined by persons who obtained options on land known as desirable to the project backers and then asked exorbitant prices.

Alan Jordan is now addressing groups in cities and farm communities throughout Central Ohio to show the direct advantages of the water conservancy program. It is not being sold as a flood control project alone.

Jordan claims that the opposition now gathering against the Muskingum Water Conservancy District was the result of "incomplete education" of the persons who were to be definitely benefited by the plan.

MUCH MORE VALUE

"Flood control was the only thing stressed in the Muskingum Valley, Jordan declared, "and that only about one-tenth of the real worth of the program."

Hoping to get all the petitions in and the signatures checked by Saturday, Sept. 15, Jordan is planning to lay the conservancy association's plans before the meeting of the common pleas judges from the 17 counties sometime in the near future, he hopes in October or November.

Then, he believes, PWA funds may be made available in time to start actual construction work in 1935.

ATTEMPT TO END PACKING STRIKE MADE BY PEALER

COLUMBUS, Oct. 3.—Major Winfield S. Pealer, city safety director, today stepped into the breach in an effort to avert serious labor troubles in Columbus as a walk-out of 500 men in a local packing plant threatened to tie up the city's meat packing industry if the unrest spreads.

Pealer is to preside at a conference between the strikers today in an attempt to bring a peaceful settlement of the situation.

The packing workers' walkout is the second strike now in progress in Columbus, with workers at the Godman Shoe plant here remaining away from their jobs.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

INCONSISTENT RELIEF

October 3.—In a former article I called attention to what I considered relief abuses, referring directly to the weekly distribution of government food commodities. I have no retraction to offer for that criticism. I still stand four square for needed and deserved federal relief, but a new innovation has recently been launched which I contend is wrong—if not wrong it is inconsistent to say the least.

I don't know the alphabetic designation of the new plan but in brief it is this. In some parts of the county a poll is being secured of the children between the ages of two and five years where the parents are on the relief list, for the purpose of establishing a kindergarten as an added relief plan.

Kindergartens have their place in primary education, and providing the instructors are competent the little tots should be better prepared to enter our public schools. Educational methods have changed materially since our childhood in the little old red school house days. Then the parents, preferably the mother, taught her youngsters their a-b-c's and thus saved their way to the school room.

In our cities kindergartens perform a double duty: take care of the youngsters whose mothers have no time to give them as their leisure is taken up with social activities, and incidentally provide a nursery where mothers who have employment may bring their little ones and have them taken care of by competent persons. A small charge must be made for this service to be paid by those benefitted. For argument sake if the mothers of families on relief had even part time employment whereby they could help in the family's support then the proposed plan would merit support. Other wise leave the preliminary education of those of tender years with their parents, and if need be use the funds necessary to carry on the new project to fit them out with clothing and other necessities.

To the credit of those on relief this seems an unnecessary expenditure is not requested, in fact it requires the promise of free lunch to interest many sufficiently to enroll their children. As Columbus Brown says, "It Seems To Me" this is an indirect relief measure not for actual dependents but for a class who have no preference, or should have none over any of the thousands unemployed. The only real privileged class of individuals is the ex-service men. Few object to this governmental preference, as many thousands were compelled to leave lucrative positions, home and everything near and dear to them and risk their health and lives in a foreign country. This preference by presidential decree is their just dues. Pardon this digression, but ex-service men have 5 per cent preference in civil service examinations and those with dependents are first in all P. W. A. projects while the single ex-soldiers have a preference over civilians in all public work if unemployed and registered.

If, as is proposed, then the plan should be restricted as to actual expenditures of rent and food for lunches, the instruction feature to be gratis. We are advised that in the distribution of food commodities there is no remuneration to the trustees or local distributor.

It is "water over the wheel" but right here we want to call your attention to last winter's educational program. In Circleville the non and children possibly under six years of age, were given part time instruction in the rudiments of possibly a neglected education at government expense, at no great benefit to anyone except the instructors. As an added incentive to attendance free lunch had to be provided. To show you the utter inconsistency we pass over the men and will try and tell you what the women were given. They were, among other things, instructed in home economics. Now as we understand the study, that part that relates to the proper preparation of foods, has no rightful place in relief on account of a lack of variety. Our duty is to furnish the food, they to prepare it in their own way.

Plain sewing was also taught, special attention being given as to how to make nice button holes. Some of the instructors we have heard of should have been in this class under a competent teacher. Every housewife and every girl should know how to do plain sewing, and while many times ready-to-wear articles can be purchased cheaper than you can make them, there is always mending and what not necessary to keep the wardrobe in order.

So far we have only scratched the surface of plain abuses in relief work, and again, as in a former article, we want it understood we are not prejudiced as regards relief, but do protest the manner in which it is often administered. We believe we already have enough agencies to handle relief in Pickaway-co, and unless the bars are to be thrown down and all professions are to be helped, then let well enough alone and all unemployed will stand on an equal footing. It is not a time to take on added burdens; but our whole concern should be to administer the relief we must provide in the most economical and just manner.

Taxpayer.

You may be one of millions who has wasted time and money on "tonics" and treatments... Now Charles Nessler, inventor of the permanent wave, leading hair scientist, author of "Story of Hair", makes a simple but revolutionary discovery that ends BALDNESS • DANDRUFF • OILINESS • THINNING HAIR

In the past, tonics and treatments tried to stop hair from falling. That is as useless as to try to stop an animal from shedding! What you must do is make your scalp replace the hair that falls—in short, complete the hair growing cycle. It is on that scientific principle

Questions and Answers Given to Housing Plan

Any property owner, individual, partnership or corporation with a regular income from salary, commissions, business, or other assured source. It is not necessary to be a depositor in the financial institution consulted.

2. To whom do I apply?

To any National Bank, State Bank or Trust Company, Savings Bank, Industrial Bank, Building and Loan Association, or Finance Co. approved by the Federal Housing Administration; or to a contractor or building supply dealer.

3. How much may I apply for?

From $100 to $2,000, depending on your income, for improvements on any one property, and in connection with not more than five properties unless approved by the Federal Housing Administration, Washington, D. C.

4. How long may notes run?

For any number of months from one to three years. (Notes extending from 37 months to five years may be submitted to the Federal Housing Administration by financial institutions for special consideration.)

5. What security is required?

That you have an adequate regular income and a good credit record in your community.

6. What assurance need I give?

(a) That you own the property.

(b) That the income of the signers of the note is at least five times the annual payments on the note.

(c) That your mortgage, if any, is in good standing, and that there are no other past due encumbrances or liens against your property.

(d) That you will use the proceeds solely for property improvement.

7. What signatures are required on the note?

Signature of the property owner; and (except in special cases) if the owner is an individual and is married, also signatures of wife or husband. No other co-signers or endorsers are required.

8. What is the cost of this credit?

The financial institution may not collect as interest and/or discount and/or fee of any kind, a total charge in excess of an amount equivalent to $5 discount per year per $100 original face amount of note.

9. How do I pay the note?

By making regular, equal, monthly payments (seasonal payments for farmers) until the note is paid in full.

10. May the owner of any kind ### of property apply?

Applications will be considered for credit to improve one-family, two-family, or other residences; apartment buildings, stores, office buildings, factories, warehouses, farm buildings.

11. Where do I make payments?

The regular installment payments will be made in person at the place of business of the financial institution; or by mail; or as otherwise arranged. No payment shall be made to any governmental office or organization.

12. May I pay the note in full before maturity date?

Yes, at any time. A reasonable rebate will be allowed for prepayment, if charges have been collected in advance.

13. May I make more than one payment at a time?

Yes, as many as you wish, but such payments should be in exact multiples of the agreed payments—that is if monthly payment is $10, larger payments should total $20, $40, etc.—not, for example, odd sums such as $18 or $25.

14. What if I am late in making my payment?

The maker must not permit his payments to fall in arrears. Should a payment be more than 15 days late, the financial institution's expense, caused thereby, should be reimbursed in part at the rate of not more than five cents per dollar for each payment in arrears. Persistent delinquency will make it necessary for the financial institution to take proper steps to effect collection in full.

BIRD STEALS HIS BAIT

ATHOL, Mass.—For a time it looked as if Percy Smith, fishing in the Connecticut river, was going to spend most of his afternoon battling with a kingfisher instead of catching him. Three times Smith cast his baited line into the water and three times the kingfisher seized it and attempted to eat it. Then Smith decided it was time to move from the vicinity if he wanted to catch anything that swam.

of Staff therefore Roosevelt—more than most people appreciate—will be running the NRA himself.

G. O. P.

Several old-line Republicans have been expressing themselves rather vehemently in private about the way things are going within the Republican National Committee.

Senator Dickinson has been grumbling because he lacks sufficient funds to run the Mid-west campaign headquarters at Chicago. Charlie Curtis thinks the new G. O. P. leaders haven't properly kept their fingers on the public pulse. Ex-Senator Jim Watson of Indiana won't even go near Chairman Henry P. Fletcher and National Headquarters.

And one group of state and sectional leaders which came to Washington to see Fletcher, got the date mixed, found he was away on a speaking trip, and after a night trying to drown their sorrow, left by next morning's train.

Stumped

Dynamic Senator Bennett Clark distinguished himself in the first phase of the munition investigation as the most aggressive cross-examiner of the committee.

But there was one witness who stumped him.

The final hearing was drawing to a close. Fred Huber, export manager for the Lake Erie Chemical Company of Cleveland, was being vigorously put over the jumps by the Senator from Missouri.

Clark read a letter from Huber to an American consul in China promising him promotion through influence with "some of my Senator friends" if he helped Lake Erie get business in China.

"Just who are your Senator friends, Mr. Huber?" Clark asked with a disarming smile.

"Well—uh—well Senator Barbour, for one," Huber said warily. Barbour, New Jersey Republican, is a member of the committee.

"Yes, and who else?" A long pause. Finally:

"Well, I guess Senator Buckley,

Barring rainy days, Secretary Morgenthau goes to work on foot. The distance from his home on Kalorama Road to the Treasury is two miles.

RF's Chairman Jesse H. Jones has decorated the walls of his office with cartoonists' caricatures of Jesse H. Jones.

Nels Anderson, FERA engineer, thinks a pretty little song might be written around the names of the various state relief organizations. They sound like the names of young ladies: TERA, VERA, SERA, NIRA.

In a conspicuous position in the outer office of the Secretary of the Treasury hangs a portrait in oil of former Secretary Ogden L. Mills.

An attendant will tell you that "Some don't like the cigar; they say it's not fitting for a portrait. But," he adds "nobody ever saw him without it."

from Ohio, my own State, is the only one I have actually met."

"But," demanded Clark witheringly, "they are not actually 'friends' of yours, are they?"

"No, they are not," Huber admitted, then brightening up, added: "Fact of the matter is, Senator, outside of you I guess I really haven't any Senator friends."

SCHOOL NOTES

The second grade is studying the poem, "The Lost Doll" by Charles Kingsley. In connection with this poem they are making dolls and doll carriages which will be exhibited at the Pumpkin Show.

The first copy of the "Busy Corner Magazine" was put out by the eighth grade English class on Friday, September 28. The editors worked very hard to complete the work on time and credit must be given to Dwight Haughn, Bobby Trego, Mildred Sines, Martha Jane Hott and Virginia Hoskins for their prompt reporting of news.

Three groups of seventh grade pupils are working on Indian villages. Warren Beers, Alva Layton, Virgil Devors, and Gardner Beatty are making a pueblo of the New Mexico and Arizona Indians. Lyle Wilkins and Howard Drake are making the Hogan of the Navaho Indians. Kathryn Hettlinger, Twila Sheets, Doris Hill and Erma Morrison are making teepees of the Sioux Indians.

The eighth grade English class are working on the review of punctuation marks. So far, they think they have mastered the period, comma, quotation marks and hyphen.

In first year Latin we have finished the first declension singular and are ready to start on the plural.

DEMOCRATS RALLY IN AKRON TONIGHT

COLUMBUS, Oct. 3.—All roads lead to Akron tonight so far as Ohio Democracy is concerned.

At the Akron Armory at 8 p. m. will be the inauguration of the fall campaign of the Democratic party for the election of its candidates to national, state, and county offices.

The committee on arrangements at Akron advised Democratic State Headquarters here today that they expect from 15,000 to 20,000 persons in attendance at the opening.

There will be a huge parade, composed of 16 divisions beginning at 7 p. m. It will pass a reviewing stand in which will be the distinguished guests of the evening, including Democratic nominees for governor and United States Senator, Martin L. Davey, and Vic Donahey. Others in the reviewing stand will be Francis Poulsen, chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee; United States Senator Robert J. Bulkley, former lieutenant-governor William C. Pickrel and others high in party circles.

The speaking program at the armory will begin at 8 p. m. Principal speakers of the evening will be Davey and Donahey. Both the candidate for governor and United States Senator have indicated that neither will "wear kid gloves" in their speeches when they come to dealing with national and state issues.

The campaign opening was arranged for Akron because it is in the heart of the fourteenth congressional district which Mr. Davey served for nine years in Washington. The opening is being arranged jointly by the Davey-Donahey Club of Akron and the Summit-co Democratic Executive Committee.

WEAK AND SKINNY MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Saved by new Vitamins of Cod Liver Oil in tasteless tablets.

Pounds of fine healthy flesh instead of thin, scraggy bones? New vigor, vim and energy instead of tired listlessness? Steady, quiet nerves? That is what thousands of people are getting through scientific latest discovery—the Vitamins of Cod Liver Oil concentrated in little sugar coated tablets without any of its horrid, fishy taste or smell.

McCo's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, they're called! "Cod Liver Oil in Tablets," and they simply work wonders. A little boy of 3, seriously sick, got well and gained 10½ lbs. in just one month. A girl of thirteen after the same disease, gained 3 lbs. the first week and 2 lbs. each week after. A young mother who could not eat or sleep after baby came got all her health back and gained 10 lbs. in less than a month.

You simply must try McCo's at once. Remember if you don't gain at least 1 lb. of firm, healthy flesh in a month get your money back. Demand and get McCo's—the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablets—approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Refuse all substitutes—insist on the original McCo's—there are none better.

The first game of the series was started under cloudy skies but there was no immediate danger of rain, the weather bureau announced.

TEMPERATURE 60

The mercury was hovering around the 60 mark.

"Erick" Owens of the American league was the umpire-in-chief.

Dean is the first pitcher since 1917 to win 30 games in one season, the big hurler taking two from the Cincinnati Reds in the final three games of the season.

Crowder was taken as a "gamble" by Manager Cochran when every other club in the league waived on him. He defeated New York twice in "crucial" series.

The starts of the game was delayed while park officials permitted ticket holders to find their seats.

DETROIT, Oct. 3.—The most harassed man in Detroit is Frank Navin, president of the Detroit club. Frank figures he is making an enemy or losing a friend with every phone call begging him to beg, borrow or steal a ticket.

NEED MILLION

"I couldn't supply the demand," said Navin last night. "If I had a quarter of a million tickets and a place to put them all, I'd like to see everybody in the country at the game but what can I do? We can't pack in more than 50,000."

And Frank sighed dolefully at the thought of all that dough he might get getting away from him.

AKRON STUDENTS TO QUIT DRILLS

AKRON, Oct. 3.—A concerted "walkout" as part of an organized revolt against compulsory military training at Akron university will take place "shortly," it was learned today.

The revolt has progressed so far, it was said, that "contracts" binding the signers to hand in their uniforms were being secretly circulated among members of the Reserve Officers' Training corps on the campus.

It was learned on good authority that a committee of six student soldiers were back of the movement. It was reported that a "substantial" number of R. O. T. C. men already had signed the "contract" to make the planned walkout effective.

The date for the walkout has been tentatively set, it was learned. The night before the walkout the "rebels" will be informed, it was said, and will appear on the campus the next day in civilian clothes and carrying their uniforms.

One R. O. T. C. man, a sophomore, declared that "we'll stick it out if it means expulsion for the whole bunch."

More than a dozen Akron pastors were reported to be behind the student revolt to oust military training from the curriculum of the university.

Mrs. Vanderbilt Denies Charges of Her Maids

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt, the youthful widow internationally famed for her beauty, who is making a legal fight for the possession of her 10-year-old child, Gloria, against her late husband's family, categorically denied today, before going to court, the testimony of a French maid formerly in her employ, which caused the hearing to be closed to the public and the press.

The maid had started a new line of testimony concerning Mrs. Vanderbilt and the Marchioness of Milford-Haven during their stay at Cannes in 1929 when the sessions were closed. The Marchioness is a leading figure in English society, her husband being a cousin of King George.

was advised by Major Gen. Malin Craig, commandant of the Ninth Army corps headquarters in San Francisco, that members of the board of inquiry would fly to the scene of the tragedy today.

Mace saw the huge bomber suddenly plunge nearly three miles from flight formation with 19 other planes. The squadron was travelling from March Field, Riverside, Cal., on a photographic aerial survey of the Sierra National forest, Inyo National park and Yosemite National park.

The dead were Capt. Robert E. Self, 39, World War flier and commander of the Eleventh Bombardment squadron; 2nd Lieut. Clifford L. Huffman, 25, Fort Collins, Colo., and Private Leroy Hitchcock, 21, Bakersfield, Cal.

TAKE BULLET FROM HEART

MANFIELD, O.—A .25 caliber bullet was removed from over the heart of Marjorie Schultz, 15, by Mansfield doctors after she had shot herself with her brother's pistol rather than return to school. Doctors said after the operation that the girl, a high school sophomore might yet return to classes.

walked with her governess in Central Park across the street. All are trying to keep from the child, who has three million dollars and whose annual income is more than $150,000, that she is the subject of a habeas corpus action, but she knows that her family is fighting over her.

The whole case is based on the moral welfare of this little child but Justice Carew said yesterday in explaining his decision the tactics of both sides "seem to be to get as much dirt about the mother into the record as is possible."

First Mrs. Whitney's lawyer, Herbert C. Smyth, put a discharged governess on the stand who testified that she had seen Prince Hohenlohe, son of one of the greatest families of the continent, in Mrs. Vanderbilt's bedroom late at night back in 1927.

PARIS, Oct. 3.—Lady Furness will rush back to New York aboard the Empress of Britain Saturday to aid her sister, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, in the fight to regain custody of her daughter, she told International News Service today.

Lady Milford-Haven, whom testimony at the New York hearing linked to Mrs. Vanderbilt in an alleged incident at Cannes, is staying at the same exclusive hotel as Lady Furness, but will not answer the telephone or receive visitors.

Nothing about the friendship between Lady Milford-Haven and Mrs. Vanderbilt is known to her, Lady Furness declared.

Frisch Puts Star Right Hand in Box; Cochrane Reserves Rowe

SKIES OVERCAST

Game Delayed to Let Crowd Get Seated

Loose fielding by Owen and Gehring set the stage for two runs for the Cardinals in the second inning when with the bases full Jack Rothrock singled to left field scoring Durocher and Dizzy Dean.

An error by Greenberg in the third inning permitted Collins to score the third run.

DETROIT, Oct. 3.—Manager Frankie Frisch selected his ace right hander, Jerome "Dizzy" Dean, in an effort to win the first game and the jump from the Detroit Tigers. Manager Mickey Cochrane reserved his star hurler, Lynnwood "Schoolboy" Rowe, for the second game and picked "General" Alvin Crowder, veteran right hander, taken from Washington by the waiver route during the year, for mound duty.

The lineup and batting order for the world series opening game at Navin field here today follows:

Three Stars in Baseball Show

Several editions of the world series have had the colorful players that the pairing of the Detroit Tigers and the St. Louis Cardinals produced for the 1934 championship tournament. Detroit, the American league flag winner, has its Lynnwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, 22-year-old hurler, who equalled the American league record of winning 16 consecutive victories. St. Louis boasts of the Dean brothers, "Dizzy" Jay and "Daffy" Paul, who promised their manager, Frankie Frisch, that they would win 45 games between them during the past season, and did more than keep their word by totalling 49 victories.

FEAR 26 LOST IN SEA STORM

Freighter Sends SOS But Two Rescue Ships Fail To Find Any Trace.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Grave fears that the British freighter Millpool, carrying a crew of 26, had sunk with all on board lost, 700 miles off the coast of Newfoundland, were expressed early today in dispatches received here by Mackay radio.

The steamer Black Gull reported that it and the Canadian Pacific freighter Beaverhill had reached the last given position of the distressed Millpool, which sent out several SOS signals, but were unable to find any trace of her.

The Millpool was last heard by the Black Gull's wireless operator at 9 p. m., G. M. T. (4 a. m., E. S. T.) and her position noted although the general text of the message sent was unreadable.

The Black Gull and the Beaverhill arrived at the scene at the same time, but neither could find a trace of the freighter. Efforts to re-establish communication with her by wireless likewise were unavailing.

Both ships have to immediately to await clearer weather, they reported.

The Millpool, bound for Montreal from Danzig, reported last night that her after-hatch had been stove in, her topmast broken and three men injured in a storm of considerable intensity.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Wallowing helplessly in an Atlantic gale, the steamship Ainderby, today reported by wireless that she was suffering heavy damage from smashing seas.

A wireless from the Ainderby, bound from England for Montreal, intercepted the Mackay Radio corporation here at 10:40 a. m. stated: "No. 1 hatch and forward iron bulkhead stove in. Part of bridge washed away and chief officer injured. Unable to leave to."

DEPUTY RECOVERS

Doctor, Who Examined Freda McKechnie After Her Body Was Found, Tightens Web About Small Town Adonis.

WILKES BARRE, Pa., Oct. 3.—Freda McKechnie, young telephone girl, died from a vicious blow on the head and not from drowning, Dr. Harry Brown testified today at the "American Tragedy" murder trial of her betrayer, 21-year-old Bobby Edwards, small-town adonis.

The prosecution charges the youthful mine surveyor struck down Freda from behind during a midnight swim in the rain at Harvey's lake. Freda was to have become a mother and Bobby wanted to marry Margaret Crain, 22-year-old music teacher, of East Aurora, N. Y., whom he had met at college, the state charges.

FOUND BLOODY GASH

Dr. Brown testified he examined the body of Freda on the beach after it was recovered. He found a bloody gash on the back of the skull, under her white bathing cap.

"She did not drown," said the physician. "Her eyes were only slightly engorged, the pupils slightly contracted. Ordinarily in a drowned person the skin has a appearance of being bruised."

Red Cross Has First Aid Booth

Pickaway-co chapter will have a fully equipped Red Cross first aid station at the southwest corner of Court and Main-sts., adjoining the Boy Scout tent, it was announced today.

Mrs. Eleanor Wolfley Bisell will be the supervisor assisted by Misses Mary Young, Elizabeth Cady and Mary Butler, all registered nurses.

Circleville physicians have volunteered their services and aiding in the work will be Miss Agnes Butch, secretary of home service, Harry L. Bartholomew, Roll call chairman, and Charles Kirkpatrick.

A number of girls in the school parade will be dressed as Red Cross nurses, Miss Butch reports.

JURORS PICKED TO TRY BRUNO ON EXTORTION

New York Judge Set October 11 for Trial Date; Attorney Objects

HEARING SHORT ONE

Alienists to Determine Hauptmann Sanity

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, Lindbergh case suspect, on charges of extortion today was set for Oct. 11 by Bronx-co Judge James M. Barrett in a brief hearing in the Bronx-co courthouse.

Judge Barrett, at the request of District Attorney Samuel Foley, set the date for trial and ordered a special panel of jurors who will try the case drawn tomorrow despatched on the train to New York.

Hauptmann's attorney that he would have insufficient time to prepare his defense by Oct. 11.

DRAW SPECIAL PANEL

Pawcett, however, consented to the drawing of the special jury panel.

The entire proceedings took only a few minutes.

The former German army machine gunner who is charged with having extorted $50,000 from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh through the mediation of Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon for the promised return of the flier's kidnapped son, presented a totally different appearance today.

Another development of importance today will be Hauptmann's examination by a board of psychiatrists, who will seek to determine his mental capacity for crime—if such a thing there is—or his lack of it.

Two, Dr. John A. Contelly and Dr. James B. Spradley will represent New Jersey, while Dr. S. Philip Goodhart will represent New York. A fourth expert, as yet unnamed, will be asked to represent the defendant.

CONFESSION DENIED

A report, emanating in Newark, N. J., that a youth had been arrested as an accomplice of Hauptmann's and that he had confessed he held the ladder against the Lindbergh home in Hopewell while the carpenter stole the baby from its crib, was vehemently denied by all authorities last night.

From New Jersey came the statement that Governor A. Harry Moore and his aides are of the opinion they have a good murder case against the sullen alien.

SMITH BABY WINS OCTOBER AWARDS

All these farm leaders will be included in the supper at the home of Turney Glick, farm bureau president, who has been arranged for Mr. Wallace, who is expected to arrive here from Chillicothe about 4 p. m. He will be taken on a tour of the livestock yards, the sales pavilion, and to see the 4-H club, school and Boy Scout exhibits.

HENNESSY GIRL HURT BY AUTO

This year's Pumpkin Show will not mean much to Marvone Hennessy, daughter of Mrs. Harriet Hennessy, 120 1-2 W. Main-st., who was brought home from Berger hospital today suffering a broken left leg.

The child was struck Tuesday afternoon by the automobile of Gomer H. Jones, seventh and eighth grade teacher in the Salt-creek-two school, while she was roller skating on the N. Washington-st. hill with Dorothy Ann Dresbach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Dresbach, H. F. Alkire, who witnessed the accident, said Jones, who turned north onto Washington-st. off Main-st., was not to blame. The Dresbach child managed to evade the automobile. Had the Hennessy child not been on roller skates she, too, would probably not have been struck.

Little Marvone was taken to Berger hospital where her injury, described as a spiral fracture of the femur, was set by Dr. D. V. Courtwright and Dr. C. C. Beale, county health officer in whose office the injured girl's mother is stenographer. An X-ray of the injury was to be taken this morning.

A little of the sting is taken from the misfortune since only Monday she and her mother moved uptown and she will be able to see the parades from an upstairs window.

TO VISIT ST. LOUIS

George William Groom will leave Thursday to attend the world series in St. Louis.

THOUSANDS TO HEAR SECRETARY WALLACE

Opening Afternoon's Weather Draws Many to City With Displays Being Rapidly Placed; Beauty Parade Expected to Provide Much Competition.

The annual Pumpkin Show—one of the most unique farm exhibitions in the nation—was formally opened this afternoon as a colorful prelude to the speech of Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, this evening.

Wallace's presence here in the heart of one of the richest farming districts in the state, was expected to draw additional thousands to the ceremonies attendant to the gala event.

In his address, the secretary of agriculture is scheduled to tell the farmers what the "New Deal" and its AAA have done for them. His address could not come at a more opportune time. The stage is set and waiting and he will find the populace and the hundreds of visitors here in a festive mood when he steps onto the speaker's platform at Main and Pickaway-sts. A loud speaking system has been erected to carry his voice far.

ALL ACTS GO ON

The show was officially opened at noon when the chimes at the court house were played by Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Sweyer. A band concert then took place with all the free acts being presented in their regular order, 1 o'clock at Main and Pickaway-sts; 3 o'clock at Court and High-sts; 4 o'clock at W. Main-st and 5 o'clock at the court house. They are repeated in the same order at 7, 9, 10 and 11 o'clock.

All displays were being placed today with almost everything to be ready for the expected crowd Wednesday evening. Boy and Girl scouts, 4-H club work and county school exhibits are in the square, E. Franklin-st; poultry and pets, S. Court-st near the court house; cake and candy, W. Main-st, south side; fruit, W. Main-st, north side; pumpkins, N. Court-st; vegetables, W. Main-st, south side; flowers, W. Main-st, south side; corn, W. Main-st, north side; small grain display, E. Main-st, north side; fancy work, Friedman room, W. Main-st; national guard, N. Court-st, west side.

The initial parade starts at 7:15 p. m. and it is the beauty event with a prize of $50 and a lot of distinction going to "Miss Pumpkin Show." She will reign at all events during the big show. The judges will face a difficult task this year as many of the recognized beauties of the city have been entered, C. G. Chaffin, parade director, reports. Out-of-town judges will select the winner.

Judging will be done on a platform erected on Pickney-st.

TWO PARADES THURSDAY

The Thursday program is a repetition of the Wednesday affair excepting the parades. The mammoth school parade moves at 2 p. m. with the pony and horse parade starting at 8 o'clock in the evening. The school parade forms on E. Main-st and marches west to Scioto, north to High, east to Court and south on Court-st to Mound-st.

The horse and pony parade starts from Mound and Court-sts, north on Court to Pickney, west on Pickney to Scioto, south on Scioto to Main, and east on Main to the section set aside for the horse show. Contrary to previous announcements the "open" horse show will be staged Thursday evening with the local show Friday. This is to assure the appearance of a number of stellar horses which would be entered in a horse show at Columbus Friday.

All in all it looks like the Pumpkin Show of 1934 will be the greatest in recent years.

SCOUT COURT OF HONOR SCHEDULED AT MAIN, PICKAWAY

A Boy Scout court of honor will be conducted on the platform arranged for Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace at Main and Pickaway-sts this evening just before the time for the national figure to appear.

Boys to receive awards are Thurman Cline, Ashville, second class; Lyman Jones, Dresden, 1st class; and Harrison Carter, star; Mary Maloney and Jack Coleman, merit awards, and Jack Coleman and Joe Bell, life awards.

It is planned to have L. J. Tabor, state farm leader, present some of the awards.

G. O. P. Room Opened

Republican party headquarters was opened today on N. Court-st in the room adjoining the Citizens Telephone Co. George Bentley is in charge of the room.

SKAGGS RETURNED TO FACE CHARGES

The story of a good man gone wrong was being told by police today after Mark Skaggs, 34, of Morgan-co, Ky., was taken back Tuesday afternoon to face the music.

Skaggs is charged with embezzling $750 of money belonging to the state of Kentucky and Morgan-co. He was returned to Kentucky after Sheriff W. H. Stacy obtained extradition papers from Governor Ruby Laffoon and Governor George White.

The man, clean-cut and apparently of good family, had served as deputy sheriff, as sheriff and as a tax collector. It was while engaged in the latter work that he went astray, officers claimed.

He was arrested here last Saturday. He had been living near Duval since last November.

Business Friend

Today Big Business, one-time attacker of Richberg as a wild-eyed assailant of the country's economic structure, no longer looks upon him with bulging eyes.

They have found him temperate, considerate, understanding. Simultaneously, Richberg's old labor cronies have been bitter in their disappointment. They hold him responsible for company unions, the Steel code, the much-criticized Aluminum code.

Actually Richberg still is much more liberal, much more progressive than Big Business. Fundamentally, he is a "left of center" man.

And probably nowhere in the United States could the President have found anyone who more closely duplicates his own personal views.

Me and Paul, That's All"— Says Dizzy on Series Day

"Frisch Would Let Me Win the Series in Four Straight," Gabby One Tells Scribe; Rowe Almost Forgotten
As Cards Hit Town.

By PAT. ROBINSON

International News Service Sports Writer.

DETROIT, Oct. 3.—"Me and Paul, that's all!"

Thus does that debonair exponent of the colossal ego—Dizzy
Dean—lightly dismiss the Tigers and the world series in one grand,
all embracing gesture.

"Me and Paul, that's all the cards need. In fact, they don't need Paul. If Frankie Frisch lets me pitch the first four games,
we'll win four straight."

What can you say about an ego as magnificent as that? You'd think a fellow who could talk like that was an insufferable bore.
Wouldn't you? And yet, he isn't.
Somehow he says it with such an easy, smiling, good natured grace that you don't mind. On the contrary, you like to hear him boast.

CAN PROVE IT

And somehow he has the knack of making you believe him. Indeed, how could you do otherwise after what he has done? Didn't he say, as he will repeat for you,
that he'd win 25 games and didn't he win 30? He most certainly did.

Therefore, you can't dismiss him
as lightly as he dismissed the Tigers' chances when he says he'll take them like Grant took Richmond, only a heluva sight faster.

"Me and Paul, that's all."

That confident, challenging phrase has gotten under this town's skin. What's more important to the Cardinals, it has gotten under the skin of the Tigers. They fear the Dean brothers and particularly Dizzy.

The Tigers have no illusions about the long, lanky Arkansan with the rubber arm and the rubber jaw. He's pure, unadulterated poison for any hitter and they know it. So does Dizzy.

"Me and Paul, that's all."

It's like a refrain, but it may be the swan song of the Tigers. "I'll be a hard one past those babies' ears so fast they'll think a typhoon hit 'em," says the Dizzy
one. "They'll be lucky to get a loud foul off me."

LETTERS TOUGHEN

"Whassat, Goslin? Say guys like him are a dime a dozen in my book. At that, those lefthanded hitters are just a little harder to throw past than the guys that think straight. (Just a delicate little compliment from Dizzy to

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this bad breath all over our body. It makes us sluggish, grouchy and no good for anything.
What makes the food decay in the bowels?
Well, when we eat too much, our bile just can't digest it. That's the bile juice!
It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and 2% of our food decays in our 28 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.
When our friends smell our bad breath
(but we don't) and we feel like a whipped tomato, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. Bile is something better than offered you, don't buy it, for it's a natural remedy. Bile is the reason you have teeth, gribes and acids in the stomach. Many people ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—Bile. ©1934, C.M.C.

THE TRUTH ABOUT HAIR AND HAIR TREATMENTS

You may be one of millions
who has wasted time, hope,
money on "tonics" and treatments. . . Now Charles Nessler, inventor of the permanent wave, leading hair scientist, author of "Story of Hair", makes a simple but revolutionary discovery that ends

BALDNESS • DANDRUFF OILINESS • THINNING HAIR
In the past, tonics and treatments tried to stop hair from falling.
That is as useless as to try to stop an animal from shedding! What you must do is make your scalp replace the hair that falls—in short,
complete the hair growing cycle.
It is on that scientific principle that Charles Nessler's Pro-Ker is based. 30,000 tests have proved that Pro-Ker produces results.

Hair for hair, it makes the scalp replace falling hair with new hair.
Enjoy your birthright—beautiful, lustrous hair. Send for Charles Nessler's revealing booklet. Bet-

the brotherhood of lefthanders!

The Dizzy one stretches his long house arms high above his head.
He looks as lean as one of the razorbacks of his native state.

"The kid here," pointing a finger at his admiring younger brother Paul—"might take them easier than I will. You know he's good. He's faster than I am but his change of pace ain't so good.
But it's good enough for those Tigers."

He slumps into an easy chair
and parks his feet on the bed, when friend wife, coming in from the adjoining room says: "Honey, take those big feet off the bed. Do you want to ruin that bedspread?
What will those hotel people think of us?"

"Ah, honey, we're paying them plenty for this room ain't we?" I guess them spreads will wash."

Never has anybody overlad-owed this one. They are the sword of Democies hanging over the Tigers' head. Not even Babe Ruth in his palmiest days struck terror into the hearts of his foes
as Dizzy looks like a nightmare to the Tigers.

Without him, one might be inclined to pick the Tigers. With him, one can't help but agree with him that this whole series hinges on the Deans. The Deans are the series.

ROWE FORGOTTEN

Strangely enough, Schoolboy Rowe is almost forgotten in the story of the Deans. Thousands of fans wait outside the hotel all day hoping for a glimpse of the mighty Dean.

Stranger still, even the Tigers are doubtful what Rowe may do.
One of them told the writer that Rowe will one day be a great pitcher but he is not yet as good as that 16-straight game record would seem to indicate. This Tiger frankly admitted that Dizzy was right. The whole series is just—"Me and Paul, that's all!"

Held in, Slaying

Marvin Day

Breaking down after hours of questioning by police from three states, Marvin Day, 20, pictured above, of South Bend, Ind., as-sertedly confessed to the assault and slaying in 1930 of eight-year-old Marverine Appel, in a South Bend alley. His statement to a Missouri transients' camp official that he was allegedly being sought in connection with the case had brought about his arrest.

About This And That

BY THE
SECOND GUESSER

WORLD SERIES FIRST

Of course the world's series broadcast tops everything over the air waves in the sports world this week but there are plenty of things of interest in the football line.

Naturally, Ohio stations will carry the Ohio State-Indiana game with the exception of WBNS which is expected to broadcast the Notre Dame-Texas university contest through the Columbia broadcasting system. Pat Flannigan, of Chicago WBEN, is at the mike—the Wisconsin-Marquette game is on the air and so is that between Iowa and Northwestern, an important Big Ten fray, even WGN, Chicago.

GRANGE TAKES MIKE

Red Grange is making his debut
this week as a radio prognosticator speaking on the three-weekly CBS review. He's on the Columbia system station in Chicago,
WBEN, each Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 7:15 p. m. The first two evenings will be devoted to pre-game outlooks and predictions, some-what on the order of Eddie Dooley's program from east, while on Saturday he will give final scores of the big games.

WHAT OF GIANTS?

Incidentally, Bob Newhall had to take back more of his continuous chatter than anyone we know when the Cardinals nosed out the Giants for the top spot in John Heydler's loop. The entire weekend when the Deans made the Cinci-Reds stand on their heads, Newhall praised the virtues of Bill Terry and his National league club.

BOBCATS NEED
HARD DRILLS

Many Rough Spots Come To
Fore in Indiana Debacle;
Georgetown Next.

ATHENS, Oct. 3.—Stunned from their 27 to 0 defeat at the hands of "Bo" McMillan's Indiana eleven at Bloomington last Saturday the Ohio Bobcats returned to two weeks of practice before their game with Georgetown here on Oct. 13.

McMillan's triumphal inaugural last week was the worst beating Ohio has taken since 1927. The new football era at this school cannot imagine such a defeat, and though a bit dazed, activity on the Ohio practice field is going forward with probably the best team attitude in the last three years.

MANY FACTORS

However, the Ohio team of last Saturday was not quite so disheartening as the score might indicate. They were outplayed, and many of the bad breaks that put Indiana into scoring position were caused directly by Ohio football that far from being alert.

On the other side Snyder's punting was very good. The ball carrying of Diehl was promising, and the end play at both terminals was better than hoped for, although it could not have been worse in going down under punts.

TO CORRECT FAULTS

The next three weeks, before the first conference game with Miami, will be spent in correcting the faults of the Indiana defeat, which means that the next three weeks will be very, very busy ones. The Ohio defense is far below last year's standard, and needs plenty of polishing. Spinners seem to have the middle of the line in a quandry, and the tackling is sorely ineffective. Also on pass defense the Bobcats will have much work to do, play in this department is possibly worse than the play of the ends covering punts.

3 PLAYERS CLIMB

COLUMBUS, Oct. 3 Three American Association baseball players, all of them outstanding,
today had been swept into the major leagues by the force of the annual draft.

The three players were Henry
Erickson, Louisville, a catcher;
Vernon C. Washington, Indianapolis outfielder, and Catcher Robert Fenner, of St. Paul. Erickson was drafted out of the minors by Cincinnati with Fenner and Washington being called by the Chicago White Sox.

The final decision on Washington's call to the majors must be made by Commissioner K. M. Landis, as his eligibility is a bit doubtful. Washington came to Indianapolis from the Texas league, being brought up by the White Sox.

Glenna After Sixth Golf Title

Seeking her sixth title, Mrs. Edwin Vare, the former Glenna Collett, who gave birth to her second child less than three months ago, gave promise of being among the leaders in women's national championship golf tournament at a Philadelphia club, after tying with two others for low medal honors. Mrs. Vare is pictured at the meet with Diana Fishwick, right, present British champion.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 3.— Indiana's budding "five-man" backfield, the brain-child of its Fourth Fray.

TORONTO, Oct. 3.—Big Ed.
Heusser, right handed rookie of the Columbus Red Birds imported from a Southern league club just before the close of the year, led the Maple Leafs down with two hits last night and won the third game of the 5-in-9 playoff for the little world series title by a 4-0 score.

Joe Morrissey hit a double in the first inning and McQuinn singled in the sixth for Toronto's only hits.
Heusser, a star of the playoff with Minneapolis, fanned seven batters.
Lucas was hurling good ball for the Toronto team but the Colum-busites took a two run lead in the sixth when Mickey Heath hit a home run with Nick Cullop, who had walked on first base. The other two came in on Gene Moore's triple with two on the paths in the eighth session.

The teams left Toronto today with the series to be resumed in Columbus Friday night.

Questions and Answers Given to Housing Plan

- Who may apply?
Any property owner, individual, partnership or corporation with a regular income from salary, commissions, business, or other assured source. It is not necessary to be a depositor in the financial institution consulted.
- To whom do I apply?
To any National Bank, State Bank or Trust Company, Savings Bank, Industrial Bank, Building and Loan Association, or Finance Co. approved by the Federal Housing Administration; or to a contractor or building supply dealer.
- How much may I apply for?
From $100 to $2,000, depending on your income, for improvements on any one property, and in connection with not more than five properties unless approved by the Federal Housing Administration, Washington, D. C.
- How long may notes run?
For any number of months from one to three years. (Notes extending from 37 months to five years may be submitted to the Federal Housing Administration by financial institutions for special consideration.)
- What security is required?
That you have an adequate regular income and a good credit record in your community.
- What assurance need I give?
(a) That you own the property.
(b) That the income of the signers of the note is at least five times the annual payments on the note.
(c) That your mortgage, if any, is in good standing, and that there are no other past due encumbrances or liens against your property.
(d) That you will use the proceeds solely for property improvement.
- What signatures are required on the note?
Signature of the property owner; and (except in special cases) if the owner is an individual and is married, also signatures of wife or husband. No other co-signers or endorsers are required.
- What is the cost of this credit?
The financial institution may not collect as interest and/or discount and/or fee of any kind, a total charge in excess of an amount equivalent to $5 discount per year per $100 original face amount of note.
- How do I pay the note?
By making regular, equal, monthly payments (seasonal payments for farmers) until the note is paid in full.
- May the owner of any kind of property apply?
Applications will be considered for credit to improve one-family, two-family, or other residences; apartment buildings, stores, office buildings, factories, warehouses, farm buildings.
- Where do I make payments?
The regular installment payments will be made in person at the place of business of the financial institution; or by mail; or as otherwise arranged. No payment shall be made to any governmental office or organization.
- May I pay the note in full before maturity date?
Yes, at any time. A reasonable rebate will be allowed for prepayment, if charges have been collected in advance.
- May I make more than one payment at a time?
Yes, as many as you wish, but such payments should be in exact multiples of the agreed payments—that is if monthly payment is $10, larger payments should total $20, $30, etc.—if, for example, odd sums such as $18 or $25.
- What if I am late in making my payment?
The maker must not permit his payments to fall in arrears. Should a payment be more than 15 days late, the financial institution's expense, caused thereby, should be reimbursed in part at the rate of not more than five cents per dollar for each payment in arrears. Persistent delinquency will make it necessary for the financial institution to take proper steps to effect collection in full.

BIRD STEALS HIS BAIT

ATHOL, Mass.—For a time it looked as if Percy Smith, fishing in the Connecticut river, was going to spend most of his afternoon battling with a kingfisher instead of catching him. Three times Smith cast his baited line into the water and three times the kingfisher seized it and attempted to eat it. Then Smith decided it was time to move from the vicinity if he wanted to catch anything that swam.

The Last Fling

"DEATH SONG"

by JOAN CLAYTON and MALCOLM LOGAN

SYNOPSIS

Seifert Vail, former opera singer, is stabbed to death in Lake-side Cottage of exclusive Sherwood Forest Sanatorium. Vail brooded constantly over his wife's death. He continuously played the phonograph record "Waiting for You," his wedding theme song in his own voice. This record was playing at the time of his death. A maid discovered Vail's body when she went into his room to turn off the record. Willis Clendening, Milton Cross and James Ruxton, the millionaire, shared the cottage with Vail. Ruxton's favorite nephew and heir, Loren Ruxton, and Dr. John Calvert are rivals for the affections of Sue Faraday, a nurse. Mark Hillier, the playwright, crippled from arthritis and bored by the monotony of sanatorium life, welcomed a little excitement. He sends his secretary, Bob Fowler, to investigate the trouble at Lake-side Cottage. It is discovered that Vail's room has a private entrance which opens directly on the grounds. Dr. Calvert claims Vail had been dead an hour before the phonograph started playing. Sheriff Dave Finn arrives.

CHAPTER VIII

Finn nodded, worried his mustache and then turned uncertainly to us.
 "Will you gentlemen tell me what happened between lunch time and the time you found the body?" he asked.
 Clendening, characteristically, was the first to volunteer his story.
 "Vail, Cross and I had lunch here, in the living room," he said, looking very important. "Mr. Ruxton goes to meals at the main dining room. Vail was in a nasty humor, but there wasn't anything unusual about that. He quarreled with the maid and complained that his soup was cold and told Cross he was a whining neurasthenic and said that being shut up with us was worse than being in jail."
 He smiled vindictively. The rest of us were uncomfortably silent. Then Dr. Calvert turned to the sheriff and said, "Mr. Vail was a sick man, sheriff, mentally, perhaps, as well as physically."
 "No, he was unpoplar," the doctor answered.
 "Was he especially unpopular with anybody?"
 "No, just generally disliked."
 "Then you wouldn't say he had any particular enemies?"
 Calvert shook his head, but James Ruxton interrupted unexpectedly.
 "In one way or another," he said calmly, "everyone here except you and Mr. Fowler would qualify. I was on better terms with Vail than anyone here, but he was not my friend. We pitied Seifert Vail, perhaps, and we tolerated him, but I doubt that anyone who ever met him liked him. He went out of his way to make enemies."
 "I don't think that's what the Sheriff meant," Dr. Calvert said, and there was an edge in his voice as he spoke to the sanatorium's wealthiest patient. "Men aren't usually murdered because their manners are unpleasant."
 Ruxton did not reply. He sat slumped in his chair, frowning. The doctor looked anxious and annoyed. Finn turned to Clendening and said, "And what happened after lunch?"
 "The tray boys came and took our trays away, and Mr. Ruxton came back from the dining room. Cross and I played a few games of rummy and Mr. Ruxton sat at the table reading a book. After a few minutes, Vail went into his room and banged the door. That was five or ten minutes before two of us went to our rooms."

Few minutes later, I got in bed and went to sleep.
 "Did you sleep all through rest period?"
 Clendening nodded. "Yes, when I woke up the phonograph was playing."
 "You didn't hear any suspicious noises?"
 "I was asleep, I tell you," Clendening replied irritably.
 The sheriff nodded and turned to Mr. Ruxton.
 "How about you, Mr. Ruxton?"
 "I heard nothing," he said. "What makes it more extraordinary is the fact that I was awake. The best kept me from sleeping. My room is on the other side of the cottage, but I am certain I would have heard any sounds of a struggle in Vail's room."
 "Where's the maid?" the sheriff asked.
 "In her room there," the doctor replied.
 Finn took a step toward her door, but as he did one of his deputies came out of Vail's room. He carried a small can of oil in his hand and he looked excited.
 "Vail must have oiled the door himself, chief," he said. "I found this in a corner beside his bureau."
 The sheriff looked at the can in silence, turned it over in his huge hand. Then he shook his head.
 "He certainly fixed things up for the murder," he said. "What breaks that guy got! First of all, there's a private door so he can get into Vail's room without anybody seeing him, and then Vail unbolted the door and oiled the hinges so he won't make any noise getting in. Looks to me like Vail was an accomplice."

"It wasn't a matter of luck that Vail's room had a private door, Mr. Finn," James Ruxton said gravely. The sheriff stared at him. "What do you mean, Mr. Ruxton?"
 "Vail had occupied that room just one day," the rich man answered. "It was mine until yesterday, when we changed rooms."
 The sheriff's eyes gleamed with interest. He asked quickly, "Whose idea was it to change rooms?"
 "It was Vail's."
 "When did he ask you to do it?"
 "I believe it was on Tuesday afternoon."
 "Did he tell you why he wanted your room?"
 "No, not then."
 "Didn't it strike you as a funny favor to ask?" Finn inquired.
 "It seemed strange, yes," Ruxton replied composedly. "Now it seems much stranger."
 "Is there any difference in the rooms, except for that door?"
 "No," Ruxton answered. "I didn't think about the door at first. I always kept it bolted. I never used it."
 We were all silent, thinking of that sequence of events. On Wednesday Vail had moved into Ruxton's room. He had oiled the door and unbolted it. This afternoon some person had entered it—and killed him. Looked to me like Vail was an accomplice.

"What do you mean?"
 He was startled. Clendening, again in the spotlight and enjoying it, leaned forward and said, "I heard you and Vail talking about it after lunch on Tuesday. I was certain I heard you refuse."
 "How did you happen to hear us?" Ruxton demanded. "We were talking in my bedroom."
 Clendening reddened and then replied with too much dignity. "I was looking for a book in the bookcase. Your voices were rather loud."
 Ruxton gave the other patient a long, cold stare, and then suddenly turned to look at the bookcase, in the front of the room. It did seem somewhat strange.

any of the bedrooms for purposes of eavesdropping. Finn was not interested in that aspect of the case. He said, "Did you turn him down when he asked you first, Mr. Ruxton?"
 "Yes."
 "What made you change your mind?"
 Ruxton glanced at Clendening. "I would prefer to tell you privately." Finn hesitated. It would have been a simple matter for him to grant the rich man's request. I am sure now that it would have been wiser had he done so. One of the complications of this case involved a case was that many important pieces of information were known by far too many people.
 But Finn refused. "I guess it's all right to say it here," he said, and consequently every one of us learned why Vail had changed his room. Ruxton shrugged and answered with contemptuous indifference.
 "Very well, Mr. Finn. I declined at first to move because Vail gave me no good reason except that he liked my room. I am a selfish man, and I saw no reason to disturb myself for him. Then, on Tuesday evening, when Vail asked me a second time, he explained the situation to me, and I consented."

Finn drew in his breath sharply. While we all listened tensely, he said, "Why did he want your room?"
 Ruxton smiled a faint, cold smile. "Vail was seeking privacy in a cottage where no one knows the meaning of the word. He was expecting a visitor, he told me, and he was extremely anxious to receive his guest without having everyone in the cottage know it and discuss it."
 "That letter!" Clendening exclaimed. "Vail got a letter from New York on Tuesday morning! I saw it here when the bell boy gave it to him."
 "Mr. Clendening has made Vail's point clear," Ruxton said ironically. "It was just that sort of prying which Vail was anxious to avoid. I could quite understand that desire and sympathize with it."
 Finn must have believed the end was in sight. His eyes were bright and hard as agate. His voice was eager.
 "Did he tell you who this visitor was?"
 "He did not tell me," Ruxton said, "and I did not ask."
 Finn swallowed. He looked a little sick.
 "Didn't he even drop a hint?" the sheriff asked.
 Ruxton shook his head. "I'm sorry, he didn't. I saw no reason to use my position to learn something which he obviously wanted to conceal."
 "It might have struck you that there was something wrong about it," Finn said aggressively.
 "I do not see why. You could not expect me to foresee his murder." He paused and said, "If Vail kept that letter—"

"By gosh, that's an idea!" Finn exclaimed. He leaped to Vail's door and pushed it open.
 "Found any letters?" he asked the deputies who were searching the room.
 "No, chief," I heard one of them drawl. "No papers at all except a lot of bills he ain't paid. There's a lot of pictures of some woman in his trunk."
 "What good's that going to do us?" Finn shouted angrily.
 "She might be the woman in the case, chief."

"Well, let's see them."
 Finn came out holding a pile of photographs in his hand. He looked, as dejected as when he had first arrived. He sighed and mopped his forehead with a handkerchief.

Facts About Circulatory System

Authority Tells How Heart and Arteries Control the Health

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
 United States Senator from New York
 Former Commissioner of Health,
 New York City

RECENTLY I told you about hardening of the arteries. It was pointed out that when the circulation of the blood is seriously disturbed for a long time it may lead to hardening of the blood vessels. Today, I want to tell you more about the circulation and its relationship to health and long life.

Dr. Copeland

The heart is often spoken of as a "pump". In reality it is the central pumping station. When the heart beats, blood is projected into the arteries. The walls of these blood vessels are made up in part of muscular tissue which serves to help the heart, adding it in the normal pulsation of blood.

"Arterial Pressure"

This system is essential to the maintenance of what is called the "arterial pressure". It is a state more commonly known as blood pressure. Without this constant pressure upon the fluid it would be impossible for the entire body to receive blood. An adequate supply of blood to all the tissues of the body is absolutely necessary for proper nourishment and growth.

This is easily explained. Food is taken into the body to provide material for body growth and repair. But in addition to taking food into the stomach, it is necessary that we take air into our lungs. When we inhale, the lungs carry oxygen to the tissues of the body. Without this vital element the food could not be utilized. Yet food and oxygen would be of little value if they were not transported to every part of the body to supply it with nourishment. This is accomplished by the circulation of the blood.

Causes of Trouble

The efficiency of the circulation is influenced by disease, particularly by disorders of the blood vessels. It is also, integrated with when certain organs of the body become infected or diseased, and especially when the central pump, or heart, is the seat of any disorder. Few persons realize the importance of the circulation and too often they fail to take adequate care of this vital system.

Overweight, lack of exercise, over-eating, faulty hygiene, and neglect of localized infection, such as diseased tonsils, infected teeth or infected nasal sinuses, commonly lead to disturbances of the circulation.

The value of periodic visits to the physician cannot be overestimated. Do not wait until some disorder, pain or discomfort forces you to consult with your doctor.

If the circulatory system is impaired or shows definite signs of disease, you will be told what to do for its correction. In this way organic and permanent changes in the heart and blood vessels can often be prevented and much unnecessary suffering avoided.

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Edna May Oliver is the one woman in the world who doesn't want to be beautiful, and boasts that her elongated face is her fortune. She craved an operatic career, which was side-tracked by domestic tragedies and financial reverses in her earlier life.

Born in Boston, Mass., Miss Oliver carries the stern demeanor of Puritan ancestors, which is softened by the merry twinkle in her eyes. She toured the country in an opera company and was ready to go to Europe when fate took a hand. Forced to seek re-employment, she crashed the drama "go" parts in the Lindsey Morrison Stock Company in her native city, was recognized overnight, and was sent for by Arnold Daly of New York. Later she went into musical comedy, played good parts, for which she was not lavishly recompensed, reverted to drama, and made a sensational hit in "Ice Bound." Her big opportunity came in "Show Boat." Miss Oliver's greatest personal hit was creating the role of the eccentric Hildegarde Withers in "The Pequin Pool Murder." She re-enacts the droll female Sherlock Holmes role in "Murder on the Blackboard," teamed again with James Gleason, Bruce Cabot, Gertrude Michael and Regis Toomey are in the cast. The picture opens tomorrow at the Cliftona.

NETS 12 CENTS IN HOGS

HARPER, Kans.—Raising hogs is not very profitable business, according to A. T. Crawford, Harper farmer. Crawford recently marketed two 80-pound porkers for 96 cents. Sales commissions, yardage and inspection charges amounted to 81 cents. Cashing the buyer's 15 cent check cost 10 cents. Crawford bought a hamburger with the remaining nickel.

DEMOCRATS RALLY IN AKRON TONIGHT

COLUMBUS, Oct. 3.—All roads lead to Akron tonight so far as Ohio Democracy is concerned.

At the Akron Armory at 8 p. m. will be the inauguration of the fall campaign of the Democratic party for the election of its candidates to national, state, and county offices.

The committee on arrangements at Akron advised Democratic State Headquarters here today that they expect from 15,000 to 20,000 persons in attendance at the opening.

There will be a huge parade, composed of 16 divisions beginning at 7 p. m. It will pass a reviewing stand in which will be the distinguished guests of the evening, including Democratic nominees for governor and United States Senator, Martin L. Davey, and Vic Donahey. Others in the reviewing stand will be Francis Foulson, chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee; United States Senator Robert J. Bulkley, former lieutenant-governor William G. Pickrel and others high in party circles.

The speaking program at the Armory will begin at 8 p. m. Principal speakers of the evening will be Davey and Donahey. Both the candidate for governor and United States Senator have indicated that neither will "wear kid gloves" in their speeches when they come to dealing with national and state issues.

The campaign opening was arranged for Akron because it is in the heart of the fourteenth congressional district which Mr. Davey served for nine years in Washington. The opening is being arranged jointly by the Davey-Donahey Club of Akron and the Summit-Ohio Democratic Executive Committee.

The mercury was hovering around the 60 mark.

"Brick" Owens of the American league was the umpire-in-chief. Dean is the first pitcher since 1917 to win 30 games in one season, the big hurler taking two from the Cincinnati Reds in the final three games of the season.

Crowder was taken as a "gamble" by Manager Cochrane when every other club in the league waived on him. He defeated New York twice in "crucial" series.

The starts of the game was delayed while park officials permitted ticket holders to find their seats.

"I couldn't supply the demand," said Navin last night. "If I had a quarter of a million tickets and a place to put them all, I'd like to see everybody in the country at the game but what can I do? We can't pack in more than 50,000."

And Frank sighed dolefully at the thought of all that dough he might get getting away from him.

AKRON STUDENTS TO QUIT DRILLS

AKRON, Oct. 3.—A concerted "walkout" as part of an organized revolt against compulsory military training at Akron university will take place "shortly," it was learned today.

The revolt has progressed so far, it was said, that "contracts" binding the signers to hand in their uniforms were being secretly circulated among members of the Reserve Officers' Training corps on the campus.

It was learned on good authority that a committee of six student soldiers were back of the movement. It was reported that a "substantial" number of R. O. T. C. men already had signed the "contract" to make the planned walkout effective.

The date for the walkout has been tentatively set, it was learned. The night before the walkout the "rebels" will be informed, it was said, and will appear on the campus the next day in civilian clothes and carrying their uniforms.

One R. O. T. C. man, a sophomore, declared that "we'll stick it out if it means expulsion for the whole bunch."

More than a dozen Akron pastors were reported to be behind the student revolt to oust military training from the curriculum of the university.

Mrs. Vanderbilt Denies Charges of Her Maids

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt, the youthful widow internationally famed for her beauty, who is making a legal fight for the possession of her 10-year-old child, Gloria, against her late husband's family, categorically denied today, before going to court, the testimony of a French maid formerly in her employ, which caused the hearing to be closed to the public and the press.

The maid had started a new line of testimony concerning Mrs. Vanderbilt and the Marchioness of Milford-Haven during their stay at Cannes in 1929 when the sessions were closed. The Marchioness is a leading figure in English society, her husband being a cousin of King George.

was advised by Major Gen. Malin Craig, commandant of the Ninth Army corps headquarters in San Francisco, that members of the board of inquiry would fly to the scene of the tragedy today.

Mace saw the huge bomber suddenly plunge nearly three miles from flight formation with 19 other planes. The squadron was travelling from March Field, Riverside, Cal., on a photographic aerial survey of the Sierra National forest, Inyo National forest and Yosemite National park.

The dead were Capt. Robert E. Self, 39, World War flier and commander of the Eleventh Bombardment squadron; 2nd Lieut. Clifford L. Huffman, 25, Fort Collins, Colo., and Private Leroy Hitchcock, 21, Bakersfield, Cal.

TAKE BULLET FROM HEART
MANSFIELD, O.—A .25 caliber bullet was removed from over the heart of Marjorie Schultz, 15, by Mansfield doctors after she had shot herself with her brother's pistol rather than return to school. Doctors said after the operation that the girl, a high school sophomore might yet return to classes.

walked with her governess in Central Park across the street. All are trying to keep from the child, who has three million dollars and whose annual income is more than $150,000, that she is the subject of a habeas corpus action, but she knows that her family is fighting over her.

The whole case is based on the moral welfare of this little child but Justice Carew said yesterday in explaining his decision the tactics of both sides "seem to be to get as much dirt about the mother into the record as is possible."

First Mrs. Whitney's lawyer, Herbert C. Smyth, put a discharged governess on the stand who testified that she had seen Prince Hohenlohe, scion of one of the greatest families of the continent, in Mrs. Vanderbilt's bedroom late at night back in 1927.

PARIS, Oct. 3. Lady Furness will rush back to New York aboard the Empress of Britain Saturday to aid her sister, Mrs.

Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, in the fight to regain custody of her daughter, she told International News Service today.

Lady Milford-Haven, whom testimony at the New York hearing linked to Mrs. Vanderbilt in an alleged incident at Cannes, is staying at the same exclusive hotel as Lady Furness, but will not answer the telephone or receive visitors.

Nothing about the friendship between Lady Milford-Haven and Mrs. Vanderbilt is known to her, Lady Furness declared.
